The Willamette Heritage Center presents
4th Annual Heritage Invitational Extravaganza!
All the Live Long Day: Work in the Valley
Friday, January 17, 2014 to Saturday, March 15, 2014

Work is a fact of modern life. Children grow up knowing that one day they will have to earn a living. As adults we divide our waking hours into work and leisure, usually knowing that we have to do the former if we want to enjoy the latter. But has this always been the case? Come enjoy displays from heritage and cultural organizations from around the mid-Valley as they explore ideas of work and the different types of work that has been done in the area over time.

For the 4th year in a row the Silverton Country Historical Society has been invited to join in Willamette Heritage Center's very special salute to history of the Mid-Valley area. Be sure to come see our display as we look back in time to see how people of Silverton made a living. The exhibits are located at Mission Mill and the event runs from January 17 to March 15, 2014.

History Pub at Seven Brides!

The turn out and participation at the History Pub and Book Fair held Saturday, October 19th at Seven Brides was so great that we all agreed we have to do it again! Authors and editors of books and cd's/dvd's who shared their works included Gus Frederick, Fred Parkinson, Lois Ray and Judy Chapman and the Scotts Mills Historical Society, Bonita Anderson, Larry Kassel, Vince Till and the Silverton Murals Association, Richard Thompson, Michael Turner, Lori Webb, Richard Engeman, Gordon Munro, Andy Nelson, Jack Hande, and Norm English. I know, I know, kind of a cliché, but a good time WAS had by all.

The Depot has a nice new roof, thank you very much, City of Silverton. But beauty doesn't come easily. A recent work day found an eager (?) work party tackling the dust and debris that had accumulated in the Depot display areas in the process. An early start on the Spring cleaning we do prior to reopening next year!

Gary vacuums "roof dust" from the upper display area in the Depot.

The finished product!!

Upcoming at SCHS
